Synopsis:

Ingrid (Julianne Moore) and Martha (Tilda Swinton) were close friends in their youth, when they worked together at the same magazine. Ingrid went on to become an autofiction novelist while Martha became a war reporter, and they were separated by the circumstances of life. After years of being out of touch, they meet again in an extreme but strangely sweet situation.

Director's Biography:

Pedro Almodóvar left his small town for Madrid as a teenager to realize his dreams of becoming a filmmaker. Arriving with few prospects, he secured employment at the National Telephone Company of Spain, which allowed him to purchase his first Super 8 camera. For the next twelve years, Almodóvar split his time between this serious day job and crazy nights collaborating with theatre groups and punk bands, and making short films with his friends. In 1980, after a year and a half of filming, Almodóvar made his feature length debut with Pepi, Luci, Bom. Since then, he has never stopped writing and directing films, which include the Academy Award winners All About My Mother and Talk to Her.
